Who should be considered a resident in the dwelling:

- Every person living in the dwelling (including children), even if, at the 2021 Census day (April 19, 2021), they are temporarily absent or who does not live there most of the year, but are displaced due to work, study, etc.;
- Children born before April 19, 2021 (2021 Census day);
- Children who, despite alternating their residence between two households (for example, after their parents' divorce), spend most of their time in this household. If time is allocated equally, children must be included in the household where they are on April, 19, 2021;
- Students who live separated from their families and return home, for example, on the weekend; exception: being a "working-student" or attending a higher education degree abroad for more than a year, he / she will be considered a resident in the place where he / she is most of the year;
- Persons temporarily admitted to hospitals, clinics or other institutions, provided that the expected period of absence from their residence (due to hospitalization) is less than one year.

Who should not be considered a resident in the dwelling:

- Those who do not live in this dwelling, even though they may be temporarily present;
- Students attending a higher education institution abroad as long as they are (or expect to be) absent for more than one year;
- People who live in social institutions whose real or expected absence is for more than one year;
- Residents abroad who are in Portugal temporarily on a business trip, tourism, etc.

Person number 1 must be the dwelling reference person.

This person is supposed to live in the household, be legal aged, and preferably have in his name the title deed or the lease. In households where these situations do not occur, the oldest person should be the one to consider.
