

Duarte Rodrigues is Member of the Board of Cohesion and Development Agency (since 2013) with strong involvement on regional policy and monitoring and evaluation of public policies co-funded by EU funds and on the national and on the negotiation of EU Cohesion Policy (Budget – Multiannual Financial Framework – and strategical and operational instruments – Portuguese Partnership Agreement and Operational Programmes). He has been also the Portuguese delegate to the Regional Development Policy Committee of the OECD (since 2008) and the chairman of its Working Party on Territorial Indicators (since 2010).

From his previous professional career the following activities can be highlighted: Deputy Coordinator of the National Strategic Reference Framework Observatory, 2008-2013; Adviser of the Portuguese Secretary of State for Regional Development, 2005-2008; Head of the Territorial Statistics Unit at Statistics Portugal, 1999-2005; Researcher of Regional and Urban Research Unit (CIRIUS) of School of Economics and Management – Lisbon University, 1996-2005. In parallel, he has developed teaching activities in the area of urban and regional economics in undergraduate courses and masters (Lisbon University) and has actively participated in various international fora on regional policy. He has been an international expert in some OECD and European Commission projects as well. Duarte Rodrigues has a degree on Economics (1996) and a MSc/Master degree on Economics (1999), both by School of Economics and Management – Lisbon University, Portugal.

Duarte Rodrigues

Member of the Board of the Cohesion and Development Agency